Please propose two courses from your department/program's catalog; you may propose any courses that you are qualified to teach during the regular summer program but what you propose will affect your ability to recruit students for the programs. Relevant factors include junior or upper division requirements, prerequisites and student demand. If you have questions about what courses may be appropriate, please contact the program director, Dr. Keith Dorwick, at kdorwick@yahoo.com.

The descriptions below should address the resources (museums, factories, hospitals, etc.) that necessitate that these courses be taught abroad. You must hold at least the master's degree to teach in the program. Adjuncts (including graduate assistants) are invited to apply for teaching positions. We routinely ask department heads of faculty to approve study abroad courses in whatever manner already established by faculty departments and colleges.

The section on Academic Rationale should indicate how these courses are rigorous courses that offer full academic credit towards a UL Lafayette degree. Course titles and the blurbs at the bottom of each page should be written in such a way as to be interesting and exciting to students. They will be used as the basis for study abroad materials produced by the office, including our website. Please print out this form after saving it and send it to:
